

Fall Festival Big Tinley Park Event

Who Wants to be the Queen of Tinley Park? File Applications Now

The business men are very enthusiastic over the big festival and crowning of the "Queen of Tinley Park." A meeting was held in the Tinley Park village hall Tuesday night and plans for the big event were completed. The affair is to be known as "A Fall Festival."

The big event is set for Saturday night, October 31st at the Saenger Hall in Tinley Park. As this is the night of Halloween the affair will be in keeping with the occasion. One of the features will be a "ghost march" when the street lights will be turned off and the "ghosts" will march to the hall. This will be a night of fun, thrills and mystery. There will be a treasure hunt in which many prizes will be awarded.

The P. T. A. will have booths at the hall and will serve refreshments and the proceeds of this will go for their benefit. The merchants are issuing coupons with purchases made in their places of business. This is one of the biggest affairs the Tinley Park business men have yet put on.

The big event of the whole thing is the selection of candidates for the title of "Miss Tinley Park." Who wants to be the queen of Tinley Park? Now girls, don't all speak at once. Here is your chance. Enter your name of that of friends with the address with any Tinley Park merchant. Applicants accepted from 15 years of age and up, unmarried. The winner will be crowned with fitting ceremonies and will receive an attractive gift presented by the merchants. Contestants applications will be received up until October 25th.

A big dance will climax the festival. There will be plenty of good music. Be sure and be there. Every one invited from all the towns about Tinley Park. Let us make the affair go over with a BANG!!

The business men of Tinley are putting this affair on to stimulate trade and knock out old man depression. Watch for more particulars next week.

Orland Judge Fines Woman $25 For Having Gun

It's easier to convict a scientist's wife for having a gun than it is a gangster. Mrs. Walter A. Weber accompanied her husband Saturday to shoot birds for Field Museum exhibits. She didn't shoot any, although she had a gun when a deputy game warden stopped the Weber's canoe in the Orland forest preserve lake. Her husband, having a permit to hunt went free. Justice of the Peace Henry Waite of Orland fined Mrs. Weber $25.00.

Otto Mattei of Joliet To Instruct Mokena School Band

About twenty-one pupils of the Mokena public school have signified their intention of playing in the proposed school band. It was hoped that more would be interested. The first practice was held Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Otto Mattei of Joliet is to be the director. He will be at the school building every Wednesday afternoon at which time he will give lessons and after school the entire band will practice. Arrangements are being made for Miss Baker to direct the band one or two nights after school for about 35 minutes.

ORLAND M. E. SERVICE TO MARK BEGINNING OF A NEW CHURCH YEAR

The Orland Park M. E. church will have its fall opening service this Sunday, October 18 at 11 a. m. This service will mark the beginning of the new church year and will be in the form of a consecration and communion service.

There will be special music by both the junior and senior choir. Both choirs have been greatly enjoyed by the congregation because they add a great deal to the service of worship.

There will also be the consecration service of the officers and the members of the board of trustees and stewards. The sacrament of Holy Communion will be served. All who are followers of the Christ are invited to share in this regardless of creed.

It is hoped that all officers, members and friends of the church will be present at this service of worship.

BASEBALL UMPIRE TO ERECT PALATIAL HOME IN HOMER TWP.

Bill Guthrie, umpire of the American League is going to erect a palatial home on the old Ott farm in the town of Homer four miles west of Wolf road on 159th street and Parker road, which he bought some time ago. Emil Keuch of Tinley Park has just finished excavation work for the basement of the residence which is to be 30x70 feet. Mr. Keuch has also done quite a lot of terrace work on the place. It is understood that several more rich men from Chicago are going to locate in Homer township.

New Tinley School Addition To Be Dedicated Nov. 4

The Tinley Park school board has set the evening of Wednesday Nov. 4th for the dedication of the new addition to the Tinley Park public school. A committee is now engaged preparing the program which will be announced in detail as soon as perfected.

Call Special Election To Elect New Mayor For Orland Park

Former Mayor Ralph Jennings of Orland Park sent his resignation to the village board last week and it was read at the council meeting on Monday night. A special election is being called for November 12th to elect a mayor to fill the unexpired term of 18 months. Mr. Jennings recently moved to LaGrange.

Tinley to Hold Dance To Raise Relief Fund

A meeting of the Tinley Park Relief Association was held Monday night at the village hall for the purpose of discussing ways and means for carrying on the relief work in Tinley Park. The meeting was poorly attended and it is hoped that more interest will be shown from now on. The need of help for the unfortunate from the more fortunate is a serious fact and not a maudlin theory. It takes time to organize and conduct a campaign of solicitation. It is every body's duty to give aid to the best of their ability and to shirk this responsibility will forfeit the respect of those who do respond to the call.

The committee earnestly asks the aid of everybody to help in some way. They want to see Tinley Park do their share.

Even those who are in need of aid can help. First they can notify our chairman, Paul Rauhoff, as to who they are and what they need.

Those who are out of employment and physically able can tender their services in exchange for help.

In fact it really seems as though those who are able will prefer to exchange their services for help and thus prove they are justified in receiving relief.

Two Killed When M. C. Freight Hits Auto At Matteson

Mr. and Mrs. George Bacon of Champaign were killed at a "blind" crossing at the Michigan Central tracks and route 49 near Matteson Thursday morning when the auto they were riding in was hit by a freight train on the Michigan Central railroad. A coroner's jury has recommended the elimination of this dangerous crossing.

ATHLETIC ORGANIZATION TO BE ORGANIZED AT ORLAND PARK

Efforts are being made to form an athletic organization at Orland Park. The plan is to form a stock company and sell shares at $10 per share until a certain amount of money needed to establish a football field and a baseball diamond on Daniels field at 143rd and Keane in Orland Park has been raised. After the fund has been secured, officers will be elected and the athletic organization will be ready to function both in winter and summer sports. Hockey is also included in the athletic program. Harry Daniels has helped the boys in getting the football field in shape and is going to erect a grandstand.

Tinley Drama Club To Sponsor Play For P. T. A. Benefit

The comedy "Wake Up Nora" which is to be presented at the new Tinley Park school auditorium on the night of November 6th will be given by the Tinley Park Drama Club for the benefit of the P. T. A., and not by the latter association as previously stated. Everyone is urged to see this play.

Tickets are now on sale.

State Plumbing Inspector Visits Mokena Past Week

An inspector from the State Plumbing Department was called to Mokena the past week to investigate complaints that the state plumbing license law was being violated. No action was taken in the matter as far as can be learned.

S. W. Highway Boosters Hold Monster Meeting

A very large crowd of delegates and boosters for the Southwest highway from towns along the Wabash from Chicago to Decatur met in the pavilion in Gibson City last Thursday, October 8th.

The Saunemin and Gibson City bands entertained on the Main street of Gibson City to the delight of all and led the parade to the pavilion followed by a string of autos bearing enthusiastic boosters for the Southwest highway. Cars from Emington had pennants and the delegates wore badges reading: "Emington Boosters for Southwest Highway". A band-a-uto led the Emington crowd with music and song.

Editor Charles Lowery of the Gibson City Courier, was the chairman of the evening. He asked the Saunemin band to open the meeting. Everyone enjoyed their spirited number.

Mr. Lowery turned the gavel over to Dr. W. R. Schussler, of Orland Park, President of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce for the business session. Dr. Schussler explained that the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce held its regular monthly meeting on the second Thursday in the month. He pointed out that the organization was chartered by the state about 4 years ago. He went on to say that the Chamber of Commerce extends from Chicago to St. Louis and involves all the direct towns along the Wabash railroad from Chicago to St. Louis.

Judge Sherman S. Knox, secretary read the minutes of the meetings at Essex and Custer Park.

Tinley Park To Have New Machine Shop Soon

New business is booming in Tinley Park in spite of the depression. A new garage and implement shop is being erected on the lot back of the Sippel property facing on Oak Park avenue on the south side of Tinley Park. The building will be of fire proof construction and building operations on it are well under way.

Charles Koehler will be in charge of the garage and Henry Haas will be in charge of the implement department.

TINLEY JUDGE SEIZED ON FRAUD CHARGE; CASE CONTINUED A WEEK

Justice of the Peace Clarence Goessel of Tinley Park was arrested Saturday on a charge of falsifying the records of his court and was released on $3,000 bond.

Robert Patnaude, plaintiff in a minor civil case tried before the justice obtained the warrant.

According to the charge, Patnaude after losing his case, paid Justice Goessel costs to file an appeal in Circuit Court. He charges he later discovered the appeal had not been filed within the stipulated time. Patnaude charged the justice altered records to hide the blunder. The case came up before Judge Staffell in Blue Island Tuesday morning and on agreement of the justice and the plaintiff the case was continued until next Tuesday morning.

Tinley Park Lion Tells of Interesting European Trip

The Tinley Lions Club enjoyed a real peppy meeting Monday night at the Legion Community hall. Over 50 per cent of the membership was present.

The business session was to the point. The Lions have been asked to contribute toward the cost of the curtain on the new Tinley school and auditorium stage. The curtain is to cost $525.00.

The Lions plan many activities for the winter. Clyde Rice has been appointed chairman of a committee on plays. Bert Fulton, member of the school board and also a Lion, advised the Lions that the board had reserved the night of November 18th for the first dance to be held in the new auditorium by the Lions club.

Everybody will be invited to participate in this. Proceeds will be divided with the school to help pay for extra equipment of the auditorium and gymnasium.

The program committee consisting of chairman Henry Wyman and Ed. Snyder and Fred Rauch have charge of this and it is expected they will put over something worth while and in keeping with the occasion. Watch for further details and reserve this date for a good time.

Remember Nov. 18th at Tinley Park in the new school auditorium, the largest and finest for miles around.

The secretary of the Lions club, Rudolph Detwiler, read the following letter from H. A. Hill, assistant secretary of Lions International, Department of Activities relative to as-

Orland Legion Post Installs New Officers

The new officers of the Orland Park Post of the American Legion were installed at the Orland Park Legion Hall Tuesday evening.

The installing officer was Senior Vice Commander Raymond of Chicago. Tom Davies of the Englewood Post served as sergeant-at-arms. The officers installed are as follows:

Commander, Van Buren Knox
Senior Vice-Commander, Herman Kruspe
Junior Vice-Commander, Ray W. Doctor

Adjutant, Lawrence Cahill
Finance Officer, Wm. Little Chaplain, Rev. Paul T. Sanders
Sergeant-at-arms, Herman Nicolai

At the close of the installation, Comrade Davies gave an address. A musical program was rendered by Mrs. H. Adele Cooper and Mrs. Geo. Gee, Jr.

Chaplain Sanders presented the outgoing commander W. R. Schussler with a Legion Past Commanders' badge and also presented him on behalf of the Orland Post with a beautiful watch as a token of appreciation for the service rendered the Post by commander Schussler during the first year of the existence of the Post. Past Commander Schussler acknowledged both gifts with a few well chosen remarks.

The Tinley Park Post was represented by Past Commander, George Rowden and Senior Vice-Commander Lester Stoltenberg.

At the close of the installation ceremonies refreshments consisting of hot dog sandwiches and coffee were served by the ladies of the Post.

The new commander, Van Buren Knox made an interesting address in which he stressed the need of co-operation of the Legion members in Orland Park so that the Post may function to its very best in 1932.

The Orland Park Post has a potential membership of 50 and out of this number has an actual membership of 39 members.

CAPT. JAMES RUSSELL, FOUNDER OF ORLAND VETERANS CAMP DIES

Capt. James C. Russell, who was the founder of the Tribune Convalescent Camp for world war veterans in the Forest Preserve in Orland Park, died early Sunday morning in the Swedish Covenant hospital in Chicago after an illness of two weeks at the age of 58 years. He was a native of Chicago and was a prominent newspaper man before the war in which he became army captain. He had been very active in Legion work.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning at the St. Mary's of the Lake church at 4200 Sheridan road. Six former chefs de gare of the 40 and 8, an ex-soldiers organization carried the body of their former comrade to the grave. Blackhawk Post of the American Legion of which Russell was formerly commander, furnished the color guard and a firing squad. The Combat Medal Men of Chicago were the guard of honor.

A special bus conveyed the veterans of the Orland camp to and from the funeral.

Capt. Wm. Wilson and Colonel Sprague of Chicago were also associated with Capt. Russell in establishing the convalescent camp in the forest preserve in Orland Park.

Funk's Lunchroom & Filling Station Open For Business In Tinley Park Saturday

Tinley Park is going to see a new business open this week when the new lunch room and filling station of Wm. Funk opens its doors for business Saturday morning of this week.

The new business is located in a fine modern brick building on Oak Park avenue. The lunch room and ice cream parlor are up to date in their appointments. A large roomy modern kitchen is located right off the lunch room. In addition to handling the usual line of ice cream, candies, lunches, dinners, etc., a line of school supplies will also be handled.

The filling station is located on the north side of the lunch room and is of a very pleasing architectural design and with its green tiled roof makes a very neat appearance. A roadway of crushed stone with fine screening top dressing extends all around the filling station and lunch room along with ample parking facilities.

The new business is quite an asset to Tinley Park. Edward Funk will be the manager.

Orland Legion Post to Sponsor Relief Meeting

In order to acquaint the public with the object and need of the Orland Relief Service which has been created to work in conjunction with the Governor's Relief Commission, the Orland Park Post of the American Legion will sponsor a big meeting at the Orland Park School Auditorium Armistice Day night. Good speakers will be provided to thoroughly explain the need of relief work. In addition the Orland Park band will furnish a musical program.

A meeting of the Ways and Means Committee of the Orland Park Relief Service was held in the parlors of St. Michael's church, with Rev. Wm. Gorey presiding. He explained that in order to avoid the spread of bolshevism in this country the specter of want and misery due to the depression existing, must not be allowed to stalk the land. He showed that Orland village and township is very fortunate in not having any cases of distress now, and emphasized the fact that now is the time to prepare for any emergency that might arise in this direction during the coming winter. The committee will consider plans for a drive for funds to be taken up following the big meeting of Nov. 11.

On Thursday, this community with more than 80 others in Cook County faced an emergency not of its own creation according to a proclamation made by the mayors of all these villages and cities. Thru no fault of their own, or of ours, many of our fellow citizens must this winter be provided with the necessities of life which they would rather provide for themselves. Over 100,000 families—men, women and above all, children—rely on the people of these eighty communities for aid. To come to their assistance the Joint Emergency Relief Fund of Cook County has been organized. Its campaign began Thursday, October 15. The mayors as heads of local government called upon all the citizens to respond promptly and generously to the appeal of this campaign.

Who Is To Blame?

No one personally, but the carelessness of every one generally. Every member of a household should be a fire prevention expert. The rules are simple; don't accumulate waste and refuse, blow out matches before throwing them down, be careful in the use of explosive liquids and take out fire insurance against loss.

Siam's Monarch CreditsProgress to Football

The king of Siam, now in this country for an operation on his eyes, is noted or rather will be in history, for the great progress his country has made under his rule. When asked by a reporter what he considered to be the greatest factor in this remarkable progress, he made the astounding answer—"Football."

"No, I do not jest. You know I was educated in England and learned the game. I introduced it in Siam and it aroused the spirit of competition in a race which has idled along in contented apathy for centuries."

"The army and navy played first. We had few men in either, for Siamese are not eager to be warriors. But soon after football came in, we had so many recruits that now our ranks are overflowing. Football awakened the nation and this wakefulness spread to every line of commercial and social endeavor. It has even taught a barefooted nation to wear shoes."

Tied and Tied

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tells the following incident:

"I sat one night over my Shakespeare when a sentence popped up that puzzled me. I said to my father, who was sitting nearby: 'Father, what is the meaning of this question, "There is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune"? What kind of tide would that be?'

"Tied down to business, son!" said father."

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Hiram L. Williamson,
Secretary
Illinois Press Association

T. P. Sullivan, former chief of police of Springfield, and for eighteen years connected with police work, has been appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to head the state's new bureau of criminal identification and investigation. The office will be located in the Payne building, Springfield. This bureau was created by the last legislature and its establishment was sponsored by various organizations and individuals throughout the state as an important aid in the suppression of crime. For the present the office will be operated with a staff of borrowed help from other divisions of the department of public welfare, and from the state highway police force. The bureau will be organized along the same lines as that of the federal bureau of identification in Washington, D. C. Finger print records from police departments, sheriffs' offices, and penal institutions of the state will be kept on file, and the departments of smaller cities will be urged to send their records to Springfield also. Commencing upon his new duties Mr. Sullivan recently had a conference with the Chicago police department.

Many Illinois congressmen have offered to assist organizations and individuals in their districts who are planning to participate next year in the nine months' nation-wide celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. They will co-operate with the George Washington bicentennial commission at Washington in the distribution of plans and programs for this celebration which begins on February 22 and continues until Thanksgiving day, 1932. The commission has prepared appropriate material for schools and colleges, for churches, patriotic and fraternal societies and has material on plays and pageants, outlines of programs, suggestions for local commissions, and other interesting data any of which is available to those interested.

Lieut. Gov. Fred E. Sterling became acting governor of Illinois September 26 when Gov. Louis L. Emmerson left for the north on a vacation trip of ten days.

Senator Charles H. Thompson, of Harrisburg; Miss Anne Hinrichsen, of Chicago; Charles W. LaPorte, of Peoria; Samuel Insull, Jr., Chicago; Victor A. Olander, secretary, Illinois Federation of Labor, Chicago; Walter L. McMenimen, Chicago, and Henry Ahels, Springfield, have been appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson on the commission authorized by the last general assembly for the purpose of conducting a study of poverty and dependency in old age.

STAGE COACH TALES

By E. C. TAYLOR

Black Hawk's Ride

THE stage coach was a white man's "infernal machine" to Black Hawk, the Sac Indian chief who led the savages of the Northwest on the warpath against the white invaders a century ago.

Black Hawk was an imposing, warlike Indian, who struck terror into the hearts of the white families living west of Lake Michigan until he was captured in 1832. The government realized that permanent peace could be established so long as Black Hawk lived, only by convincing the Sac leader that his white brothers were destined to rule the country and that further warfare by the Indians would be useless.

The representatives of "The Great White Father" in Washington conceived the idea that the best way to teach the proud chief that the white man was his master was to show him the wonderful progress the whites had made, to open the savage's eyes to the wonders of civilization.

The stage coach a century ago was to civilization what the airplane is today. It was the fastest, most comfortable mode of travel then devised. Despite the fact that stage coach riding was little more than a severe jolting, with progress sometimes of only two miles an hour over almost impassable roads, it was the last word in methods of travel where the early railroads had not as yet been built.

The National road, stretching between the Atlantic seaboard to St. Louis by way of Cumberland, Md., Wheeling, W. Va., and the Ohio river valley was the pride of the nation. All freight and passenger traffic between the East and Middle West, moved over this highway, as many as 30 or 40 stage coaches and hundreds of enormous freight wagons moving in each direction every day.

So it was decided to take Black Hawk and his lesser chiefs and retinue to Washington, the home of "The Great White Father," and make him peaceable by showing him the wonders of the white man's civilization, and the futility of engaging in war on the whites.

The large party, which numbered a score of Indians and their captors, traveled east on boats on the Ohio river to Wheeling. There they were transferred to stage coaches, and set out over the National road for Washington.

When Black Hawk first saw the stage coaches, he was convinced they were a white man's death trap, and he protested gutturally against what he believed was a scheme to kill him and the Indians with him.

Daniel Leggett was driving the coach carrying Black Hawk. An Indian was on the seat beside him, and inside the vehicle were six other Indians and a half-breed interpreter, besides Black Hawk.

Black Hawk had ridden in stolid silence, but with wary eyes, until his coach reached Washington, Pa. As the coach rattled down Main street in that city, a strap on the harness of a wheel horse broke. The horse plunged, and threw the Indian riding with the driver to the ground. The Indian, in falling, grabbed the driver and pulled him off the coach with him.

The horses promptly ran away, with Black Hawk and his companions inside the swaying, careening coach. The frightened steeds made straight for the barn of the National house, where the coaches stopped on their trips east and west. At the corner of Main and Maiden streets, the coach upset, pinning Black Hawk and his traveling companions inside.

Black Hawk was the first to emerge from the wreckage. He came out of the overturned coach with fire in his eyes, and for a time it looked as though the mission to establish permanent peace with the Indians in the Northwest had been smashed.

He delivered a tirade which on-lookers later said must have been a masterly oratorical effort. He spoke at length and very feelingly, with all the dignity of an outraged Indian chief. Unfortunately, in the excitement no one made a record of what he said, and what probably was an epic of Indian oratory was lost to succeeding generations.

The gist of it was, according to his listeners, that he did not care for this phase of the white man's civilization, and that he had been convinced from the start that the stage coach was a white man's death trap. He said just what a white man probably would have said under similar circumstances.

The angry Sac chief did not cool off until several hours later, when he was persuaded to partake of a sumptuous white man's meal at the National house. The next morning Black Hawk appeared to have forgotten the events of the afternoon before, and meekly entered another coach to resume the trip to Washington.

Divorce in Sweden

In many countries, particularly Scandinavian, both parties may join in a petition for divorce, and in Sweden this is exceedingly common. It is not necessary that a crime against the other shall be committed by either party. A year's probation is required if such a petition is filed. By far the greater number of divorces granted in Sweden are for incompatibility.—Exchange.

Lesson for October 18PAUL IN THESSALONICA AND BEREA

GOLDEN TEXT—Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 17:1-15; I Thess. 2:1-12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How We Ought to Hear.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Kinds of Hearers.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Two Kinds of Hearers.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Winning through Love.

I. Paul Preaching in Thessalonica (17:1-10).

1. His method (vv. 1, 2). He observed the divine order, to the Jew first, and was exceedingly anxious for his kinsmen in the flesh, but when they proved themselves unworthy, he turned to the Gentiles.

2. His message (v. 3). It was that Jesus is the Christ. In order to prove that Jesus is the Christ, he expounded unto them the Scriptures. Concerning Christ he set forth three propositions: a. That Christ must needs have suffered (v. 3). The suffering Christ was not welcomed by the Jews. They had explained away such positive assertions as are set forth in Isaiah 53. They were looking for a Messiah of a different type. This is common today in our churches and Sunday schools. The cross is an offense.

b. "Risen again from the dead" (v. 3). This he also proved by the Scriptures.

c. "That this Jesus whom I preach unto you is Christ" (v. 3). He declared that the historic Jesus whom he had proclaimed had suffered and risen from the dead. Therefore, he is the predicted Messiah.

3. The attitude of the Jews toward his preaching (vv. 4-10). While some Jews believed and many Greeks, the envy of certain Jews was so aroused at Paul's success that they gathered together the worthless fellows of the town and set on foot a riot. They said, "These have turned the world upside down." It is true that the gospel is revolutionary, but not treason to right government. They turned the preaching of Paul into a specious lie. He preached the kingship of Jesus (v. 7). Jesus is most assuredly coming to reign on this earth.

II. The Character of Paul's Ministry at Thessalonica (I Thess. 2:1-12).

In this section we have exhibited the temper of the apostolic ministry. It becomes an ideal for such as would follow in his wake.

1. It was courageous (vv. 1, 2). In spite of shameful persecution, Paul persisted in his ministry, demonstrating his devotion to the Lord.

2. Honest and guileless (vv. 3, 4). He had no ulterior motive. As one sent of God, he faithfully ministered unto them.

3. Without flattering words (v. 5). Regardless of the difficulty of his positions, the prominence of the persons faced, he never resorted to flattery.

4. Without a cloak of covetousness (v. 5). The impelling force of his life was devotion to God and interest in lost men. Opportunity for personal gain he waived aside.

5. He did not seek glory from man (v. 6), his supreme aim being to honor God.

6. He was gentle and affectionate (vv. 7, 8). So vitally did he enter into the lives of the people that he displayed gentleness, even as a nursing mother with her children.

7. Unselfish (v. 9). In order that his motive be not questioned he labored night and day for his support.

8. Irreproachable and blameless (v. 10). He did not claim to be faultless, but he boldly challenged them as to his blamelessness.

9. His lofty aim (vv. 11, 12). It was that they would walk worthy of God in keeping with their high calling.

III. Paul Preaching in Berea (Acts 17:10-15).

1. His method (v. 10). He entered the Jewish synagogue and preached Christ unto them.

2. The reception of the gospel by the Bereans (vv. 11, 12). It was with gladness of heart. The message was just as new to these Jews and just as counter to their way of thinking as it was to the Thessalonian Jews, but they had a more noble disposition. Two things are said of them:

a. They received the message gladly.

b. They searched the Scriptures daily for the truthfulness of the message which they had heard.

3. The wicked action of the Jews (vv. 13-15). Wicked Jews from Thessalonica followed the missionaries and stirred up the people against them, making it necessary for them again to flee.

Sin

Sin sprang into life, and I saw myself a dead man. It is remarkable that Christianity is the only religion that produces this effect. There is no word in any non-Christian language for sin as moral evil.—D. M. Pantton.

Sticking to the Finish

Character is developed by fighting a plan through to success and triumphing over obstacles. Anyone can start, but only a person with character will stick to the finish.—Watchword.

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water neutralizes instantly many times that much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

45,000,000 Visit Parks

The state parks of the country, now numbering more than 300, were by no means idle acres last year. Figures gathered by the National Park service indicate that there were 45,000,000 visitors in the reservations last year, making an average of 15,000 per park. The parks, incidentally, averaged 1,000 acres each although naturally many were much larger and many much smaller.

Los Angeles Boy Needed Help

Leroy Young, 1116 Georgia St., Los Angeles, is a "regular fellow," active in sports, and at the top in his classes at school. To look at him now, you'd think he never had a day's sickness but his mother says: "When Leroy was just a little fellow, we found his stomach and bowels were weak. He kept suffering from constipation. Nothing, he ate agreed with him. He was fretful, feverish and puny."

"When we started giving him California Fig Syrup his condition improved quickly. His constipation and biliousness stopped and he had no more trouble of that kind. I have since used California Fig Syrup with him for colds and upset spells. He likes it because it tastes so good and I like it because it helps him so wonderfully!"

California Fig Syrup has been the trusted standby of mothers for over 50 years. Leading physicians recommend it. It is purely vegetable and works with Nature to regulate, tone and strengthen the stomach and bowels of children so they get full nourishment from their food and waste is eliminated in a normal way.

Four million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it. Always look for the word "California" on the carton to be sure of getting the genuine.

Liabilities

A Boston girl says she will marry the man who pays her father's debts. We would advise interested parties to first find out who got the father in debt.

ORLAND PARK

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schmaedeke, a son last Wednesday at the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet.

The Ladies Aid of the Christ Lutheran church will hold their annual bazaar and chicken supper Nov. 5th in the Lutheran school. The bazaar will begin at 3 o'clock. There will be a fancy work and apron booth and a wide variety of other articles will be on sale. The chicken supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock. Every one invited.

The Orland Park R. N. A. will hold a bunco and 500 party at the school auditorium October 22. A basket containing $5 worth of groceries will be donated as a prize.

A box social was held at the M. E. church parlors Wednesday night.

Roy Loebe attended a Kelvinator convention in Chicago Tuesday.

John Helenhouse, Orland fire chief was taken seriously ill Monday and was removed to the Silver Cross hospital at Joliet Tuesday.

His many friends hope for an early recovery.

John Loebe has been making an auto trip thru the south the past week.

Rev. and Mrs. Paul T. Sanders entertained guests from Madison, Wisconsin this week.

FOUND—A boy's wrist watch at the Orland M. E. bazaar. Owner can have same by calling Rev. Paul Sanders.

The Orland Park P. T. A. sponsored "Father's Night" last Thursday night at the school auditorium. The primary, intermediate, and the high school classes put on a program. The high school students put on a little play entitled "Cinderella". Cake and coffee was served.

The next meeting of the P. T. A. will be held November 12th.

This year the P. T. A. is awarding books instead of pictures to the room having the best attendance of parents in the month. Last month the rooms of Miss Lucille Schmaedeke and Mr. Beckloft tied. This month Miss Schmaedeke's room carried off the prize. Three books, to be selected by the teacher, are awarded as a monthly prize. In this manner a school library will be started.

The high school students will hold a masque ball at the school auditorium Halloween night.

The resignation of Ralph Jennings as mayor of Orland Park was read at the village board meeting Monday night. Thomas Wheeler was appointed mayor pro tem for the council meeting Monday night.

Matters pertaining to the Southwest highway were considered.

SPECIAL NOTICES

At a recent board meeting of the Orland Park M. E. church a motion of a previous meeting concerning the loaning and use of church property was passed upon. Any persons or organizations wishing to use the church must obtain a permit from the trustees thru John Loebe. Any persons or organizations wishing to borrow furniture or equipment from the church must obtain a permit from the chairman of the building and grounds committee, Thomas Cooper. A deposit of $2 for persons or organizations outside of the church will be required and will be returned upon the return of the furniture or equipment borrowed.

Parents Class to be Organized

Plans are under way to organize a Sunday School class for parents of children. The purpose of this class is to discuss the religious problems of the children which is felt to be a great need. There are many questions that come to parents from their children which they cannot answer. There are many problems that the parents should be thinking about if we can expect the present generation of boys and girls to grow up with the proper religious background and it is important that parents accompany their children to Sunday school and church if they expect them to grow up in the Christian life. This class will be taught by Rev. Mr. Sanders.

SUNDAY SCHOOL STARTS NEW YEAR

Under the direction of the able superintendent Mr. C. E. Beagley the M. E. Church School has started its new year of instruction. The classes have all been promoted and many new teachers added as some of the other teachers have retired. Miss Lois Ludwig and Miss Pearl Cooper who have so faithfully served as teachers for a number of years have given up their classes to the Misses Lavon and Lylas Kay. Mr. Lawrence Cahill has taken over the class of boys formally taught by Mrs. Stellwagen. Miss Tilly Simons has taken over the young peoples class formally taught by Rev. Sanders. Mrs. Chas. Cooper has been added to the staff of teachers in the Primary Department.

Very fine plans are under way for the year, it should be a very profitable year for the students in the school. It is hoped that all parents will cooperate by seeing that their children are present every Sunday as well as attending themselves.

LADIES GUILD TO HOLD ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The Ladies Guild which has had a very successful year under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Roy Newton will hold its annual election of officers the last Thursday of Oct., which is Oct. 29.

ADULT BIBLE CLASS ENDS YEAR WITH GOOD REPORT

The Adult Bible Class under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Jacob Kramer and teacher Mrs. Thomas Cooper ended the year with a good report of work accomplished. The class is composed of the adults in the Sunday school.

In the past year the treasurer, Mr. Cahill reported that the class had expended $73.45 in various things for the church and has a balance in the treasury of $26.65. Many activities have been carried on by the class such as the care of the sick and shut ins and many other things. All of the adults of the church should be attending this class.

"More genuine satisfaction than any car I ever owned"

THE FORD is good-looking. It is safe. Comfortable. Speedy. Reliable. Long-lived. Economical. Everything a good car should be.

There is, too, an added something about it that brings enthusiastic comments from every one who has ever driven a Ford . . . the joy it puts in motoring.

"I have been a car owner continuously for nearly 20 years," writes a motorist connected with a leading university. "During this period I have bought eleven new automobiles. Eight of the eleven were in the middle-price field, one cost three thousand dollars, and the last is a Ford I purchased thirteen months ago.

"In the light of this experience I can say in all sincerity that I have derived more genuine satisfaction from the Ford than any car I ever owned. In saying this, I am thinking in terms of comfort, safety, driving pleasure, ease of control and economy. My next car will also be a Ford because it will give me what I want at a price I can afford to pay."

When you get behind the wheel of the Ford and drive it yourself you will know it is a truly remarkable car at a low price. You will like it when you first buy it. You will become more and more enthusiastic the longer you drive it.

After thousands of miles of driving you will say "it's a great car." Its economy will save you many dollars.

different service clubs to have the enclosed pledge signed and returned to them.

"Inasmuch as we want our Lions Clubs to make the best showing possible; much better than any of the service clubs we would appreciate very much you having every member of your club sign the enclosed pledge and immediately forward to Lion Arthur B. Heaton, Chairman Lions Clubs, Sub. Committee, President's Committee on Unemployment, 1211 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D. C."

The pledge in question which the Tinley Park Lions Club voted unanimously to sign is as follows:

"Upon my honor as a member of the Tinley Park Lions Club, I hereby pledge that during the continuance of the existence of the financial depression, I will do the best of my ability observe each and every one of the following rules:

"1—I will furnish employment when possible on two days of each week to one or more persons work outside of the ordinary routine for which I regularly pay employees.

"2—I will seek the procurement of a similar pledge from at least one other person who is not affiliated with any of the service clubs of this city.

"3—When feasible and economical, my circumstances considered, I will purchase during each week at least two articles useful to myself and family not essentially indispensable.

"4—I will endeavor to comply in spirit and letter with any and every action that my club determines to take in the interest of reduction of unemployment."

At the close of the business session George Schreiber, a charter Lion club member who has just returned from a trip to Germany where he visited his brother and other relatives and his old home in Muehlenhausen which he left 50 years ago, gave a very interesting account of his trip abroad and of the sights seen. He showed photos of the many scenes and of a view on board the liner Berlin. There were 1100 passengers on board going over and 925 on the return trip.

Mr. Schreiber gave a fine description of the rush for the bar room on board the ship when the 12 mile limit was passed out of New York harbor and also told how tightly the bar was sealed on the return trip after the ship entered the 12 mile limit.

Mr. Schreiber showed the interest of Lions billions of marks on paper, which he had bought as souvenirs. Some of the bills were in denominations of five billion marks. This inflated currency is now worthless.

He showed some of the present silver currency bearing the likeness of the President of the German Republic, also a victory thaler dating back sixty years commemorating the German victory over France in the war of 1870-71.

Mr. Schreiber was given the glad hand and the Lions roar and a song was sung in his honor.

Lion President A. O. Foskett read a very interesting clipping of an article appearing in Harper's Weekly in 1854 describing national conditions as they are today and awarded peony roots as a prize to the Lion guessing the nearest date when the original article was printed and H. C. Vogt was the successful guesser.

At the close of the social hour doughnuts and cider were served.

MARLEY NOTES

Hold Monster

Meeting at Gibson

Edward L. Wilson of Manhattan, chairman of the Legislative Committee gave an interesting talk that made everyone feel good.

Mr. Walsh, supervisor from Campus petitioned for the next meeting of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce. Mayor Smith of Decatur discussed holding the meeting at Taylorville. It was finally decided to appoint a committee to name the place for the November meeting.

The business of the meeting being completed, Editor Lowery resumed the chairmanship of the evening. He asked the Saunemin band to play another number. Regrets were read from the Governor, Hon. H. A. Cleveland of the state department of public works, state engineer Frank Sheets (World's Best Road Builder), and various senators and representatives who had been invited but who found it impossible to be present at this meeting.

Mayor Smith of Decatur was called upon to address the audience. He congratulated the Southwest Chamber of Commerce for their ability to organize and maintain as great an institution as the Chamber of Commerce. The building of the Southwest Highway is a good thing he declared and that all the citizens along the line in intermediate cities should join hands and assist them in their proposition. It will, however, take the Honorables in the State Assembly to finally accomplish the act for the people, he pointed out.

Representative Childers, of Ford County, was the next speaker. He said that the Southwest Highway will shorten the distance between St. Louis and Chicago 50 miles.

Miss Ruth Brannon, of Manhattan the corresponding secretary of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce was introduced by the chairman and she in turn introduced the Hon. Michael Henneberry of Wilmington to the audience.

Rep. Henneberry opened his address by saying that Will County is intensely interested in the Southwest highway and that he, as a State Representative, would do everything in his power to promote the project.

He went on to say that the Southwest Highway should have been built before and that it should be built now. It is up to the legislature, he stated to see that the people get this highway. He urged the boosters to keep on with the fight and victory eventually would be theirs. He voted in favor of both of the bond issues. After the 60 million bond issue passed it was found insufficient to build the mileage called for and as a result the second bond issue of 100 hundred million dollars was passed and that has proved insufficient.

"It is true", he stated "that the mileage called for in these two bond issues is not yet completed. But it is also true that there is an endless stream of gold pouring into the state treasury from the gas tax and the motor vehicle license fees. On the other hand men are walking the highways in search of employment. Build the highways and relieve depression by giving work to the people of the state. We want no idle money in the state treasury. We want the money to get working to help the unemployed in the state of Illinois. Build the Southwest Highway from Chicago to St. Louis so that the people from the great Southwest can drive to the great city by the lake over a highway which ought to have been built years ago."

Rep. Henneberry concluded his persuasive speech with the statement that personally and officially he would do everything to further the immediate construction of the great Southwest Highway.

Representative Wilson from Kankakee said that it was a pleasure to drive over these roads. He was glad to have Cook County co-operate with us in pushing the completion of the Southwest Highway.

Former State Representative Lotie Holman O'Neill gave an interesting talk. She said that hard roads are a political matter. She declared that she admired a group that goes out with the idea to do something definite. She liked the spirit of the whole thing, the spirit of the Southwest Towns Chamber of Commerce. When in the General Assembly she told the audience, she did not vote for the three cent gas tax. She said she had sought a lower fee. She declared, now we not only have the license fee, but the gas tax also while thousands of men out of work are walking the streets. She urged that the money being paid in should be used to build needed highways.

Former U. S. Congressman, Frank Gillispie from Bloomington started his remarks by saying that the great people of the world were plain people who had never asked but one thing of the government and that is an opportunity upon which to apply labor power and the right to the full product of that labor without having it taxed away. Apply the labor problem in central Illinois to produce food, raw material, coal, iron, steel, the things the human family must have to subsist upon. Apply genuine labor power of the American people to produce and to have an open market where they can realize cost of production and a living wage for the labor power applied. He urged the building of roads to advance a market. He showed that without good roads there can be no fair markets.

Former Governor Len Small was given quite an ovation when one of the speakers declared he pulled Illinois out of the mud by building the concrete highways.

L. W. Shade, chairman of the road committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Decatur together with Judge Burns from Kankakee both addressed the meeting. Major John W. Kendall of Farmer City assured the road boosters that Farmer City is for the Southwest Highway and will help to get this highway thru to St. Louis. Lott Herrmann member City said that enough pressure can be brought on the legislature to have the Southwest Highway built.

One of the speakers did not take a very rosy view of the early completion of the Southwest highway, saying this would not occur until in 1933.

At the meeting of the committee held October 6th, President A. O. Foskett reviewed the splendid work done by the Lions Club in furnishing noon lunches to various school children, through the assistance of Mrs. Trudie Swisher, providing clothing to the needy with the cooperation of Mrs. Lulu Rogers and further aiding the Legion and R. N. A. in distributing Christmas baskets.

Mr. George Rowden estimated $250 had been spent in Legionaire service work from the Tinley Park Treasury as well as the $250 received through the Cook County Welfare Fund; $500 in all being used for coal, provisions and service work.

Mrs. Swisher reported a check had been forwarded by the Parent Teachers Association and a personal check from one of the teachers to the Lions Club to be used for the Christmas baskets. A needy family was presented a Christmas basket by the Niagara Girls.

Mr. Wyman reported a check had been turned over to the Lions from the Tinley Park M. E. church.

Mrs. Clemens reported a collection by the Ladies Aid of the Zion Lutheran church.

It was voted to hold a Charity dance for the purpose of raising funds. A dance committee was appointed consisting of:

Chairman, Bert Fulton, George Rowden, Harold Lorenz, John Andres and Anna Clemens.

Volunteers, Henry Vogt and Anna Mesenbrink.

Mrs. Lulu Rogers was unanimously elected to take charge of clothing.

Mr. Foskett was unanimously elected Publicity Chairman.

Here Is Something Worth Thinking Over

A London editor, with an unusual understanding of American people and conditions, takes us to task in the words which follow. There is a lot of good sense in what he says:

"You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears.

You have half the gold of the world and half of the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers.

You have the greatest home market in the world and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen.

You are ruled more by ideas and less by traditions than any other people in the world. You have already done what you thought you ought to do.

How can it be possible that a progressive nation of 120,000,000 people can be wrecked by the speculation of a handful of fools in Wall Street.

The prices that were forced too high had to come down. Today all prices are too low.

There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it.

Dollars are now being sold for 30 cents. Practically every security in the United States is being sold at less than its value.

The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take the risk.

Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1873.

Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in slumps.

Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. Ye Gods! What a chance there is at this moment!

In five years from now most American Business men will belong to the "I-wish-I-had-club".

Then it will be too late to buy a dollar for 30 cents. The opportunities will be gone.

When a horse balks, the balk is in his head, not in his legs. He moves on when he thinks he will.

And when an American business man is depressed the slump is in his head. There is nothing serious to prevent him from making money if he thinks he will.

When fear rules the will nothing can be done, but when a man casts fear out of his mind, the world becomes his oyster.

To lose a bit of money is nothing but to lose hope or lose nerve and ambition, that is what makes men cripples.

This silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside of you. RISE AND WALK."

Orland Legion Post To Sponsor Relief Meeting Nov. 11th

The Joint Emergency Relief Fund Committee is seeking to raise a fund of eight million dollars for the purpose of relief in Cook County this winter. The need for this sum has been carefully computed. It will not provide extravagant assistance. It will barely cover the physical necessities of life for those in our midst unable to care for themselves and families. It will assure only the bare essentials for the sustenance of our aged, our sick, our children and our unemployed thru no fault of their own, find themselves at present unable to provide for themselves.

This fund will be disbursed thru over 100 relief and charitable agencies operating in Cook County. Our own community, as well as all other communities in Cook County, will benefit thru the distribution of this fund.

Every dollar raised in this campaign will be expended in Cook County for its own residents. There will be no discrimination as to race or creed. Every dollar given means a full dollar for the work of relief. Not a cent of campaign expenses will be deducted from contributions.

Everyone who has a job should help him who for the hour has not. All can rest assured that the money they give will be carefully guarded, honestly accounted for, and distributed intelligently where it will best serve the need, by business men who volunteer their services.

Announcement has also been made of essay and song contests to be held in every school public and parochial in Cook County to commence October 15th and end Saturday, November 7th. Particulars regarding these contests will be given next week.

An Aid To Digestion

BECAUSE pineapple contains an enzyme called bromelin which helps one to take care of foods rich in proteins, it is a good fruit to serve with both meats and fish. Practically all good pineapple comes from Hawaii where a number of great companies operate plantations and canneries, and now send us such a flood of this golden fruit that the price is much lower than heretofore. So here's a recipe for Ham Baked with Pineapple: Soak a slice of ham one inch thick in warm water for at least one hour. Drain and sprinkle with flour. Melt a little fat in the baking pan, preferably a piece that is cut from the ham, and brown the meat in it.

Pour one cup crushed pineapple and one-half cup water over the ham and bake slowly until tender or about one hour. Remove to hot platter and pour pineapple around it.

But this is not the only way to serve pineapple with fish or meat. Slices of it can be browned with various dishes, and it can also be combined into a most delicious

Pineapple Stuffing: Mix two cups soft bread crumbs, two tablespoons melted butter, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-half cup finely chopped celery and one-half cup well drained, crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Moisten with the syrup drained from the pineapple and use as a stuffing for baked fish or meat.*

Scarlet Fever Shows Increase In Illinois

Scarlet fever prevalence increased sharply during September. This indicates that the usual autumnal rise of that disease has definitely begun. Case reports are now averaging about 100 per week in Illinois against 65 in late August and early September. Last year case reports went up from 235 in August to 400 in September, 897 in October, 1,336 in November and 1,591 in December. The trend this season is the same with a slightly higher attack rate. Infantile paralysis showed no significant downward tendency during September. The first three weeks of that month brought 132 new case reports. Last year a definite seasonal decline in this disease began about mid-October.

Whooping cough is running stubbornly to a high prevalence course for this season. The 1,365 cases reported during August gave the highest monthly incidence recorded since July 1921. For September the weekly average was 220 cases against 135 in that month of 1930 and an expectancy of 150. This disease is apt to be particularly serious to children under 3 years old. To whooping cough Illinois has lost 4,646 lives during the last 12 years and 92 per cent of these were of children under 3 years old.

Diphtheria has thus far run an unusually low prevalence course for this season. Case reports averaged about 55 per week in September. Doubtless the immunization of a large number of children during the last two years is responsible for most of the improvement. Diphtheria usually begins to increase sharply in September.

Typhoid fever is running about 30 per cent under the prevalence record year of 1929. Two outbreaks, one at Quincy and one in Ridgway, involved more than sporadic cases.

Other epidemic diseases were at low prevalence levels during September. Colds and pneumonia showed a slight tendency to increase late in the month and are apt to grow widely prevalent as the autumn advances and winter approaches.

From a national viewpoint, diphtheria prevalence during early September was greater in New York, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Tennessee than in Illinois. Infantile paralysis continued to affect two areas, principally, one centering in New York and the other in Illinois. Connecticut, New Jersey and Rhode Island were hit sharply in the east while Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin in the Middle West are experiencing sharp epidemic waves.

SUCH IS LIFE—And Such Is Life!

Belize Depends on Mahogany Trade

Is the Least Known Bit of British America.

Washington.—A hurricane in British Honduras swept into the front pages of the country the name of Belize, capital of this little-known bit of British America.

"Belize, the city, with a population of only 13,000 people, would be a small town elsewhere, but it is the metropolis of England's section of the dense tropical jungles in the southeast sector of the Yucatan peninsula," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Although Belize is unmistakably British in appearance, the houses of two and three stories that line the main residential streets being of accepted British architecture, many of the British leaders of the colony complain that it is becoming 'Americanized.' Newspapers and magazines from the United States far outnumber those from England, while the official money unit of British Honduras is the American gold dollar.

"The British flavor of the country is as much diluted by tropical influences, however, as by American. Coal-black policemen are clothed much like the London 'Bobby,' and speak with the same broad, Cockney accent.

"The mahogany industry, justly commemorated on the flag of British Honduras by the tools of the trade, lured the earliest settlers to Belize in the eighteenth century, put money in their pockets, furnished something for them and their backs, Great Britain, to fight the Spaniards; and today is responsible for the main industry of Belize and British Honduras—lumbering.

"The people of Belize even tell solemnly how the lowest portions of their city, once a seemingly bottomless swamp, have been filled in and made usable by the millions of mahogany chips hacked there from logs which must be roughly squared before they are ready for market. Assisting the chips in the work of stabilization—they relate with equal solemnity—were the thousands of empty rum bottles thrown aside by the axmen.

"Belize was settled by British 'squatters.' Spain, from the days of the earliest explorers claimed the entire 'Main,' or mainland, but she was interested chiefly in gold and silver, mere trees seemed beneath notice. So the British, cutting trees on the eastern coast of Yucatan, the present British Honduras, and in the mosquito country, farthest south, were not molested at first.

"When the settlers were seen to be making a good thing of their mahogany trade, the Spanish changed their policy and began harassing them. A series of wars and treaties between Spain and England followed. In 1798 the Spaniards, attacking Belize, were driven off by British settlers with cannon mounted on rafts and flatboats. In 1862 the 'settlement' was declared a 'colony,' and was given a lieutenant governor acting under the governor of Jamaica. In 1884 it became a separate crown colony.

"In addition to mahogany and logwood Belize carries on an active trade with the United States in bananas, coconuts, citrus fruits, cacao, and thousands of bales of chicle, the latter the raw material of chewing gum. Great Britain and Canada divide the small part of the colony's trade that does not go to the United States. In addition British Honduras is one of America's best Central American customers, buying nearly $2,000,000 worth of our products in 1929.

Offspring to Help Kansas Man Run Waco-Wego.

Wichita, Kan.—George Washington Winters, well-known Kansas realtor, has brought the business section of Waco-Wego, near here, so that he can find work for three boys and a daughter.

Jobs were difficult to find in Wichita this summer, Winters said, so he purchased the business district of Waco-Wego so that Billy, ten; George Wood, sixteen; Clifford, nineteen, and Hazel, twenty, would find something to do.

Included in Winters' purchase was a garage, a filling station, grocery store, soda fountain, lunchroom, bulk oil station and a home. It will be in these business places that his family will be employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Winters plan to make the place the busiest spot in this wheat-growing county. Their first job has been the thorough cleaning and painting and adding modern conveniences.

In addition to being the head of his various mercantile establishments, Winters will carry the title of mayor, city manager and chief of police of Waco-Wego.

Winters has given up his real estate business in Wichita and has resigned as president of the Kansas real estate board so that he can devote more time to his new business.

The little city which Winters virtually owns is located on an arterial highway that is traveled a great deal by transcontinental travelers.

COST OF AN EDUCATION

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

A magazine of standing published recently an article from a father of three children, all of whom are in college, in which a strong protest is made against the increasing cost of education. The writer claimed that what was true of his children could be said of the average young person going to college in the representative institutions of the country.

Briefly, he complained that to send his three children to the institutions which they were attending was costing him, conservatively speaking, $4,500 a year; and this amount is exclusive of vacations and a number of additional expenses.

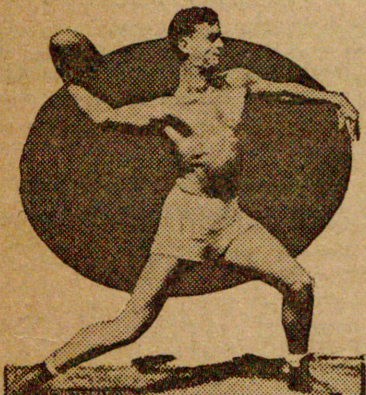

I am quite sure that the average cost of an education in the representative colleges of the country is far less than this man alleges, and should be. Evans has just finished his junior year in the college with which I am associated. He graduated four years ago from a small high school in a country town. He is the oldest of three children, his father having a clerical position which does not pay him as much as a year as the complaining father mentioned above spent annually on each of his children.

Evans was out of high school a year working and saving his money before trying to enter college. He got a job at college, which enabled him to earn his board; and during his short vacations at Christmas and Easter he earned enough to pay his fees. He has held a good position each summer; he has been economical; he has found a position in college for the last

Oregon City Harvests

Walnuts From Streets

Salem, Ore.—It's harvest time on Salem's city streets.

This city, claimant to the only English walnut orchard of comparative size within a city limits, is also the possessor of the largest Franquette walnut orchard in the world.

And the best part of the arrangement is the orchard is municipally owned.

Years ago, when Salem became the state capital, hundreds of walnut trees were planted along the roadsides. When pavement supplanted board walks the trees remained in the parking strips. With care and irrigation the trees have expanded into an orchard of 5,000 trees, covering an area of about 300 acres.

The harvest will reach 25 tons, a record production. The average yield is estimated at ten pounds a tree, although several of the older ones will produce an individual yield of more than 200 pounds.

Explorer Sets Forth

Sahara as Man's Cradle

Upon his return to the United States after an 18,000-mile exploration trip through Africa Dr. Arthur Torrence, Los Angeles explorer, announces his belief that the southern Sahara desert was the cradle of the human race. Not only did he make extensive investigations of the primitive tribes and the geological history of the Sahara, but he claims to have found evidence refuting the Darwinian theory of the origin and perpetuation of new species. While he does not deny that man evolved from a lower type of animal, he thinks this evolution took place in the southern part of the Sahara.

You Can Stop that Rheumatic Pain

The constant nerve-racking pain that spells rheumatism or neuritis can be relieved, often stopped, entirely. The new treatment which gives quick results where old methods have failed calls for two or three daily applications of B. & M., The Penetrating Germicide. Used externally, this preparation seldom fails to stop the intense pain in a few hours. Also, where the trouble is caused by germ infection, the B. & M. treatment will destroy the germs, making it possible for Nature to restore normal conditions. Your druggist should be able to supply B. & M. If not, send us his name and $1.25 for a full-size bottle. Or ask for free booklet. F. E. Rollins Co., 53 Beverly St., Boston, Mass. (Adv.)

BOWELS need watching

Let Dr. Caldwell help whenever your child is feverish or upset; or has caught cold.

His simple prescription will make that bilious, headachy, cross boy or girl comfortable, happy, well in just a few hours. It soon restores the bowels to healthy regularity. It helps "break-up" a cold by keeping the bowels free from all that sickening mucus waste.

You have a famous doctor's word for this laxative. Dr. Caldwell's record of having attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your drugstore and have it ready. Then you won't have to worry when any member of your family is headachy, bilious, gassy or constipated. Syrup Pepsin is good for all ages. It sweetens the bowels; increases appetite—makes digestion more complete.

Marshal Foch expressed his thanks for what I had said, and added that while it was true the American army was still young, its spirit was splendid and it was tremendously increasing every day in efficiency and in numbers.

He then asked Marshal Haig whether, in view of what General Petain and I had said, he cared to modify his views on the terms of an armistice, to which Haig replied in the negative. The conference ended here with Marshal Foch's request that each of us submit in writing what we had proposed.

CHAPTER LXIII

Returning to Paris from the conference of allied commanders-in-chief at Senlis, October 25, 1918, I cabled a report of the proceedings to Washington, including my proposals in detail as enumerated in the previous chapter.

Marshal Foch did not definitely express his views at the conference, as may be recalled, but the following day he submitted his report to Prime Minister Clemenceau. Marshal Foch's recommendations embraced the main points proposed by the commander-in-chief, and were accepted by the supreme war council with practically no change.

In the light of later events we know Germany was more nearly beaten than the allied leaders realized at that time, and was, in fact, in no position to resume the fighting even had her government remained intact. Her last division was in line, her supply system was demoralized, and the congestion behind her lines made it practically impossible for her to move her armies in the face of the aggressive allies.

Instead of requiring the German forces to retire at once, leaving material, arms and equipment behind, the armistice terms permitted them to march back to their homeland with colors flying and bands playing, posing as the victims of political conditions.

If unconditional surrender had been demanded, the Germans would, without doubt, have been compelled to yield, and their troops would have returned to Germany without arms, virtually as paroled prisoners of war. The surrender of the German armies would have been an advantage to the allies in the discussion of peace terms and would have greatly facilitated their execution.

In conversation with M. Poincare some time after the war, he told me that, as president of the republic, he was in favor of demanding the surrender of the German armies, but that M. Clemenceau, his prime minister, insisted upon granting them an armistice.

The last phase of the Meuse-Argonne operations was to begin November 1. The American army was now able for the first time to prepare for an offensive with some deliberation, under reasonably normal conditions and more nearly on an equal footing with the other armies.

We had learned from reports and from photographs taken by our aviators that the enemy had greatly strengthened the most prominent points back of his lines, while captured documents indicated his intention of organizing a position along the west slopes of the Baricourt ridge. The eastern spurs of this ridge commanded all the crossings of the Meuse and formed a connecting link with the high ground east of the river about Cote Saint-Germain.

The infantry advanced to the assault at 5:30 the morning of November 1, following an accurate barrage of artillery and machine-gun fire, which beat down German resistance over a zone of 1,200 yards in depth. Squadrons of swift-flying combat planes drove the enemy planes from the air and fired on the hostile infantry, while the bombing squadrons harassed important points behind the enemy's lines. The attack went forward with precision, gaining momentum with every mile.

Enemy Badly Beaten Everywhere.
For the first time the enemy's lines were completely broken through. Although he had been badly beaten on all parts of the front he had hitherto been able to avoid this disaster. By the magnificent dash of our First Army, however, the enemy now found himself in the same situation that had confronted the allies earlier in the war.

The Fifth corps in the center drove a wedge into the German defenses, swept through the zone of their artillery, and by night had reached the heights of Baricourt, five miles from the front of departure. The enemy's lines had been decisively crushed, thanks to the splendid performances of the Eighty-ninth and Second divisions.

The Third corps had strongly supported the Fifth corps, the Ninetieth division carrying all its objectives without a reverse, and the Fifth division on its right reaching the Meuse, north of Brielle, and capturing Clerly-le-Grand.

On the left of the army in the First corps the Eightieth division co-operated with the Second division in the capture of Imecourt and reached the corps objective north of Sivry. The remainder of the corps was unable, in in the face of heavy machine-gun fire, and the following day seized Baricourt and drove the enemy backward to Beaulair. The Second division made a slight advance on this date, resuming the attack the 3rd.

That night the Third brigade (Col. James C. Rhea), by a perilous night march through the extensive Forêt de Dieulet passed completely beyond the enemy's lines and captured German troops in their billets. By midnight the head of the column was in firm possession of la Tuillerie farm, just south of Beaumont.

The success of the attack in the center, November 1, compelled the retirement of the enemy on the entire front of the First corps. The Eightieth division on the 2nd reached the new German defensive position, broke through it and took Buzancy. The following day, against heavy fire, the Eightieth established its line along the road running southeast from St. Pierremont.

The Seventy-seventh division now succeeded in passing Champigneulle, and by the night of the 2nd had reached Haricourt. The following morning it drove the enemy to the hill north of St. Pierremont, where it was held up by heavy machine-gun fire.

Pershing Spends Day at Front.
The Seventy-eighth division captured the Bois des Loges the 2nd, and es-

First army should completely expect the enemy from the region between the Meuse and the Bar within the next few days. The results obtained by this army have been felt on the entire front from the Moselle to Holland.

"It is desired that, in carrying out the directions that are outlined herein, corps and division commanders push troops forward wherever resistance is broken, without regard for fixed objectives and without fear for their flanks. Special attention will be given to impress upon all officers and soldiers that energy, boldness and open warfare methods are demanded by the present situation.

The First and Second armies will at once prepare to undertake operations with the ultimate purpose of destroying the enemy's organization and driving him beyond the existing frontier in the region of Briey and Longwy."

Between the Meuse and Chiers rivers, north and northeast of Stenay, there was a very strong position which commanded the crossings in that vicinity. I believed that if we should cross the river south of Stenay and move in the direction of Montmedy we could turn this position and have an excellent opportunity to capture large numbers of German troops driven back on the line Sedan-Montmedy. By this maneuver we would also be in an advantageous position to advance on the important supply areas of Longwy and Briey.

An attack by the Third corps to the east across the Meuse, south of Dun-sur-Meuse, in conjunction with the northward movement by the French Seventeenth corps, was prepared as a preliminary to a new line of advance to the east.

November 3, 4 and 5, the Fifth division of the Third corps in a brilliant maneuver on a wide front effected crossings of the Meuse and established spite of great efforts, to make much headway against the Bois des Loges, although the Seventy-eighth division did gain a foothold in that wood.

By the evening of November 1 the situation of the enemy was so serious that he had either to deliver a strong counter-attack or to withdraw from all territory south of Buzancy-Boul-aux-Bois. The blow struck by the First Army had, however, given him such a shock that he was unable to take strong offensive action, although he still offered serious resistance.

Germans Hurled Beyond Meuse.

The attack continued with vigor November 2 and 3, the Third corps hurling the enemy beyond the Meuse near Dun-sur-Meuse and Stenay. The Fifth division on the 2nd captured Douillon and the Ninetieth took Villers-devant-Dun. The following day the Ninetieth pushed through the woods on its front and established its line along the heights overlooking the river in the neighborhood of Villefranche.

In the Fifth corps the Eighty-ninth division November 2 captured Tailly established its line along the eastern edge of the Bois de Bourgogne north to Briquénay, and continuing on the 3rd, captured Germont and Verrières.

My diary notes:

"Souilly, Thursday, November 7, 1918. Had long talk with Stettinius about ordnance on Monday. Visited Second army headquarters and found indications of withdrawal on that front.

"Spent the day at front. Went through Grandpre, overtaking Dickman's First corps headquarters at Haricourt; he was pushing troops toward Sedan. Returned through St. Juvin and found traffic in difficulties, many trucks having run off the road in the darkness. Gave directions to use lights on all motor transport.

"Received letter from Marshal Foch today asking for six American divisions for new offensive south of Metz. Our advance has been continuous. Recommended Harbord and McAndrews for promotion to grade of lieutenant general."

By November 4, the enemy, greatly disorganized, was retiring before the vigorous pursuit of our troops on the entire front of the First Army. His withdrawal was strongly protected by cleverly placed machine guns and well-organized delaying operations.

The following telegram came to me on the afternoon of the 5th:

"The operations begun November 1 by the First American army, due to the valor of the command and to the energy and bravery of the troops, have already assured results of great importance. I am happy to send you my congratulations."

"FOCH."

CHAPTER LXIV

Our success had been so striking since the beginning of the November 1 attack that I felt full advantage should be taken of the possibility of destroying the armies on our front and seizing the region upon which Germany largely depended for her supply of iron and coal. In accordance with these views the following order was issued to the First and Second armies:

"The energetic action of the

CLOCKS OF THESE AND OTHER DAYS

History of Timepieces in England.

A minor American humorist wrote a cheery little tale about a man who took a fancy to clocks, bought more and more clocks until his room was full of them, and then went mad through trying to make them all keep time together. To a less inconvenient degree many people have at one time or another been mad about clocks. The three hundredth birthday of the Company of Clockmakers, which received its charter from King Charles on August 22, 1631, recently turned their thoughts to their past and present loves among clocks and watches. The paternal watch, large, gold, which used to fly open when fiercely blown upon; the "One Day Bee," or other such racy little foreign friends of school days; the bracket clock in the hall, with its silvery tinkle of chimes; the great old grandfather with a moon like a Dutch doll at the top of his face, which ticked so solemnly and struck so awfully and yet comfortably in the rare wakeful night hours—any one of these, or a dozen others, may have set alight a fancy or a passion that will last till the church clock strikes the last of a man's hours.

They get the best out of clocks and watches who know all about their insides as well as their outside; know exactly what is meant by pinions, escapements, pallets, trains and the rest, and how the movement of a timepiece has changed in the last 600 years. But those who have no mechanical taste or skill may always say what those who know no astronomy say—that ignorance increases the mystery, and that it is enough for them to admire in reverence the works, while they concentrate on the beauty of the dials, the hands, the corner ornaments, the case, all the lovely work in metals and in woods, in gilding and in painting, in enamel and in jewelry with which clocks and watches can delight the eye.

Seeing how common and how cheap are watches and clocks today, it is hard to realize how shortly before the Company of Clockmakers had its charter did men cease to be content with the sundial, the hour-glass and the water clock. It is only natural, perhaps, that the art of the clockmakers should have developed easily and quickly in England—a country where sundials were all but useless, and water clocks too shrewd a reminder of the weather. It seems not to be believed now that St. Paul's cathedral had a clock in the Thirteenth century, and St. Albans abbey a clock in the reign of King Edward II, but it is held very probable that the Dover castle clock of 1300-1400, now in the Victoria and Albert museum, is one of the earliest clocks still in existence. As time went on London clocks, like London guns, became the best in the world, with material and workmanship better than any provincial or foreign competitor could compass. Great names among the English clockmakers came into fame: David Ramsey and Edward East, Thomas Tompion and George Graham, his assistant, who are buried together in Westminster abbey; Daniel Quare, Thomas Earnshaw, John Harrison, who made the first good marine chronometer, and Thomas Mudge, who invented the lever escapement. And now the variety of clocks and watches, in size, in shape, in material, and in everything, is a constant marvel. From the clock of the houses of parliament (commonly misnamed Big Ben) to a lady's wrist watch scarcely to be seen by the naked eye, there are all sizes. When the clockmakers got their charter, a big "lantern" clock wanted winding every twelve hours; and even in the Eighteenth century no minute hand could be trusted (though the then much more important dial of days of the month went very well). Today a watch the size of a postage stamp will go for eight days, and a thing scarcely thicker than a half-crown will hold works that put to shame the honest contents of the "egg" or the "turnip" of our forefathers. And, indeed, it is kind of the clockmaker to charm our senses and to amuse our minds with their arts. It is thus that they divert attention from the true meaning of that figure of time with his scythe which is one of the supporters of their shield.—London Times.

Games Popular Today

Known Centuries Ago

The fact that some of our modern games are very old was shown recently when the University of Pennsylvania museum acquired a die, dating from about 2750 B. C., which may have been one of a pair used in backgammon. The backgammon of ancient days was played on a tablet ruled with straight lines, instead of the colored triangles painted on the modern board, which is said to date from about the Tenth century. But the principle on which it was played has been preserved, and, like a number of other modern games, backgammon's ancient origin is still apparent.

The Greeks played a form of backgammon in which the men or counters were moved along a rectangular board known as the "abacus"; the players took turns at throwing dice, and advanced their men according to the numbers they threw. The Romans had a similar game known as "Scripta Duodecim," or twelve lines, which they probably carried over from the Greeks. That backgammon was also known to other peoples of ancient times is shown by a board, discovered at Ur and dating from about 3000 B. C., which is also in the collection of Pennsylvania university. The die recently acquired by the museum was found at Tepe Gawra in Mesopotamia.

Even older than backgammon is the game of dice. Sophocles wrote that dice were invented during the siege of Troy by one Palamedes, a Greek; Herodotus credited the Lydians with the accomplishment; but the discovery of dice in very early oriental tombs indicates that they were probably of Asiatic origin.—New York Times.

Caring for the Aged

Approximately $3,000,000 is expected to be distributed annually among some 8,000 persons under Massachusetts' old-age assistance act, which went into effect in July. All needy citizens seventy years or over, who have been in the state at least 20 years, are eligible for assistance, which ranges between $2 and $3 weekly.

An Open Letter

Mr. Clarence E. Beagley, Orland Park, Illinois.

Sir:

Last week's HERALD carried the news that you have found it necessary to sell the Westinghouse line of radios in order to better serve your customers. Needless to say I was very much complimented for I have been telling my friends for the past year that it is among the finest of radios.

It makes little difference to a large corporation like the Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co., who sells their products in a small town like Orland Park. In dull times they may even encourage franchise "stealing" in order to increase sales. That is an old "trick", but is to be regretted that a business man like yourself would be a party to such a deal.

It will be one year ago next Tuesday, Oct. 20th that I opened the Orland Electric Shop. From the large amount of business accorded us, it appears that the people of Orland Park like to see honest competition. It means better service for them. We intend to keep that competition HONEST.

Sincerely,

ROY A. LOEBE

A Tropical Wedding

PEOPLE know what to eat in the tropics in order to keep cool and preserve their health. So why not take a leaf out of their book, these dog days, and serve a dish which unites two tropical fruits, bananas and Hawaiian pineapples, both of which are plentiful and cheap? The first of these fruits is fresh, and the other is canned. There's a good reason for this.

Bananas are picked green and ripen successfully on their way to our markets. But a pineapple picked green fails to develop the same sugar content as a pineapple permitted to come to full maturity on the plant.
 And this natural fruit sugar forms the major part of its flavor and sweetness. So pineapples are allowed to ripen beneath Hawaii's sunshine, picked at their prime, and clapped into cans with their full flavor intact.

Here's the Recipe

The ceremony for the wedding of these two tropical fruits in a fritter that will fairly melt in your mouth is as follows:
Pineapple Banana Fritters: Beat one egg well, and add one-fourth cup milk, one cup flour, and one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoon confectioner's sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt and one mashed banana. Drain the contents of one 3-ounce can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple, and add. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat, 370°, and fry until brown. Serve sprinkled with powdered sugar. This makes from twelve to fourteen fritters.*

Repentance. Lutherans teach that repentance in the Biblical sense of the term, is sincere regret for and acknowledgement of sin, together with a trustful appeal to God for forgiveness in Christ's name; that it is a condition of the heart without which no man can hope to be saved; and that every truly repentant sinner is assured of God's free and full pardon. References: Is. 55, 6, 7; Matt.

 den Club held their meeting at the home of Evelyn Wachter Monday, October 12. A special meeting is going to be held next Monday, October 19th at the school house to decide if the unit shall have a play.
 Evelyn Wachter, Alice Horras and Gertrude Sippel received their golden pleasure badges. A test was given on 15 flowers. The next regular meeting will be held at the home of Marie Tierney, November 11th.

PALOS PARK

The ladies of the Community church were entertained on Tuesday at the Pergola. Mrs. Thorsell was hostess and served a fine chicken dinner.

Several Palos women drove into the city Tuesday to attend a play and dinner given by the Third District Federation of Women's Clubs.
 One more pupil has been added to the group from Palos going to Blue Island High School. This makes 17 in this group.

Mr. A. W. Ward has returned to his home after a trip to Michigan.
 Palos is glad to see him back with improved health.

Mrs. Patterson is busy organizing the village co-operative with the Governor's Relief Commission.

Several hundred women met in the Kean ave., Preserve last Friday to enjoy the outing of the Third District Federation of Women's Clubs. A picnic lunch was served.
 The women drove to Orland Park to view the proposed lake development.
 This was explained to them by Mr.
 Kennicott, Forest Preserve Engineer and Mr. Cowan who has been instrumental in arousing enthusiasm in the project. After the lake trip, the ladies enjoyed a program conducted by two Indians and assisted by local girls.

The Community Church is being equipped with a new furnace in preparation for winter.

ORLAND PARK

Tax assessors were working about Orland Park Wednesday and Thursday measuring buildings.

Wm. Junker is excavating for the foundation of a new house.

New Gas Rates

Effective Oct. 15

Beginning Wednesday, October 15th the lower rates for gas service as ordered by the Illinois Commerce Commission, went into effect. The new rates will bring a reduction to customers of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois that amounts to approximately 5 per cent on gas used for cooking and other domestic purposes and approximately 30 per cent on gas used for heating homes.

The introduction of new gas into the system of the Public Service, which was the basis for the reduction in rates, will begin shortly, according to L. C. Stephens, district manager. The Company has made careful preparations for adjusting the equipment of its customers to burn the new fuel and anticipates completing conversion of the entire territory served to the new fuel within the next six weeks. Proper adjustments are being made on each customer's premises by the Company's own service men without any charge to the customer.

"We have had a number of inquiries from customers", said Mr.
 Stephens, "asking if the reduced rates would be in effect in time to install gas heating equipment this season. Fortunately, the announcement that the reduction on house heating becomes effective immediately enables customers to secure this fuel under the reduced rate for this winter."

Tinley Defeated on Opening Game of Football Season

Orland Park initiated its first grid encounter with a smashing 19-0 victory over Tinley Park at Tinley Park last Sunday Oct. 11.

The first quarter consisted of the usual preliminary early game punches at each others lines, neither showing too much advantage. The second quarter showed up Orland as decidedly the superior team and was featured by a touchdown pass when Ralph Bodin of Orland shot a 40 yard pass to Edward Bodin for a touchdown.

In the third quarter R. Bodin of Orland again heaved a 35 yard pass to Ed. Bodin who scampered the remaining 40 yards for a touchdown.
 Davis bucked over the final touchdown in the same quarter and the final score was Orland 19, Tinley 0.

Kline, center for Orland played a nice game as did Ray Ludwig half back. Referee: Brightmore. Head linesman, C. Bodin

This coming Sunday Orland will play New Lenox at the Daniels field at 143rd and Keane ave., at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

Any team seeking games call Orland Park 58 and call for Mr. John Klein.

Gypsy Women Who Sought To Hold Up Local Woman Caught

Mrs. Anna Magrel of Mokena was quite surprised the past week when her sister residing in Milwaukee sent her a clipping from a Milwaukee paper of a picture of two gypsy women who had been arrested on embezzlement warrants, as one of the women was the same one who had attempted to hold up Mrs. Mag-rel in the Royal Blue store in Mokena a few weeks ago.

The two gaudily dressed gypsy women are being held by the police while the latter are investigating a fortune telling racket reported to have netted $50,000 from Milwau-keans during the summer.

The women, both mothers, were brought to Milwaukee from Elkhorn, Wisconsin where 51 members of a roving band were picked up. In the group was a 16 year old girl who had robbed a Harvard, Ill., woman of $37.

The two held give their names as Mary John, 37, and Lena Eli, 24.
 Both deny ever being in Milwaukee and refuse to talk.

An average of 70,000 long distance telephone calls are made daily in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, Canada.

Charleston, W. Va., is now connected with Chicago by direct telephone circuit, so that calls will no longer have to be switched at Cincinnati.

A Long Distance telephone line is under construction in Colombia, South America, between the Port of Buenaventura, on the Pacific coast, and Bogota, the capital, in the mountainous inland plateau.

In the new telephone directory for the city of Seattle, the Johnsons still hold first place, with 871 listings to their credit, followed by the Smiths and the Andersons, with scores of 729 and 649 respectively.
